TO ADVERTISERS.

The very extensive circulation which the Courier and Argus enjoys, renders it a most eligible medium for all kinds of advertisements.

THE DECISION AGAINST MISS LONGWORTH.

In its latest issue, the long-continued Yorkshire marriage case, in which the merits of the case were discussed, it is doubtful whether it has been followed by the public with much interest.

The Courier and Argus.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 1, 1867.

The foundation stone of a new Episcopal Church was laid at St. Andrew's yesterday.

A London telegram states (on what authority we know not) that Parliament will be prorogued about the 20th.

According to the Observer the Government have determined to proceed no further with the Royal Patent Bill.

It is announced from Vienna that the Emperor Napoleon will visit his brother, the King of Rome, and be visited in turn at Paris by the same illustrious monarch.

The Globe gives us to understand that Lord Derby's health is so much improved that the noble Premier will take his accustomed seat in the House of Lords this evening.

Our readers will pursue with regret the account of the death of a young man, who, after a long illness, died at his residence, St. Andrew's, on the 29th inst.

In the House of Commons yesterday, Sir H. Verney's motion for a resolution, that the Government should be asked to consider the expediency of extending the law of entail to the children of the poor, was discussed.

The Member for Brighton explained the provisions of his bill at some length. It proposed to extend the law of entail to the children of the poor, and to allow them to sell their land as they pleased.

It is to be hoped that, if it is capable of being carried into effect, it will be a great benefit to the poor, and will tend to improve the condition of the labouring classes.
